The 150 monuments which mark the positions of the contending troops great battle were all dedicated and conpemp of military display and the most eloquent terances of each State's most gifted orators. It has been a hard day's work, made harder by the terrible heat, but the exercises have been none the interesting and the crowds have been something wonderful. Governor Matthews, of Indiana, drew many to hear him, but he had to divide the honors with General Lew Wallace.

Governor McKinley, who was the most conspicuous figure in the dedication of Ohio's fifty-five monuments. The great tariff champion was a living picture of Napoleon on horseback as he came up Snodgrass Hill to-day at the head of the Ohio soldiery. The thousands who were in the Park for the dedication of State monuments seemed to congregate at noon about the spot chosen for the Ohio ceremonies. As McKinley came up to the speaker's stand and sat on his horse surveying the thousands, there was a long, wild cheer. Then some enthusiastic old soldier threw his G. A. R. hat high in the air and shouted, "Three cheers for the next President!" The crowd was in sympathy with this sentiment, and the three cheers came with a will. The cheering was renewed when McKinley made his speech.

On the same platform with McKinley was James E. Campbell, an ex-Governor of Ohio, who has lately been nominated by the Ohio Democtacy to lead in a hopeless campaign. There were many spectators who understood that Campbell is also a possible Presidential candidate, and there was something memorable and striking in seeing the two gallant sons of Ohio making patriceling the two gallant sons of Ohio making patriceling the two gallant sons of Ohio making patriceling speches to-day from the same platform of covernor McKinley, and nothing in it that of Governor McKinley, and nothing in it that could be construed as a bid for political honors. It was a plain, patriotic address, declaring for a common country, one flag and one glorious descenting for the United Nation. Ex-Governor Campbell's speech was in his usual happy vein, and his reception was almost as warm as that given to McKinley.

It was a disappointment to those who crowded about the Ohio meeting that Secretary Lamont was not present. It had been announced that he would appear and receive the Ohio monuments from McKinley on behalf of the United States, from McKinley on behalf of the United States, But owing to his absence General Fullerton, of the Park Board, made the speech of acceptance. Ex-Governor Campbell, who has a campaign on his hands at home, started for Ohio to-night. The intense heat which has prevailed during the ARRIVAL OF CABINET OFFICERS.

Vice-President Stevenson was consplcuous at the Illinois meeting, though he did not make an address. He will preside at the great National dedication of to-morrow and make his speech at that time. There was an additional hurrah tonight over the arrival of Secretary Herbert, Secretary Hoke Smith, Attorney-General Harmen and Postmaster-General Wilson from Washington. It has been a matter of congratulation among the people of Chattanooga that the National Government is as well represented as it is, with Vice-President Stevenson, ex-Speaker Crisp, a score of Congressmen and General Schofield already here, and the arrival of four Cabinet officers added to the importance of the occasion. They received a true Southern welcome at the station and were escorted to their respective stopping-places. Postmaster-General Wilson went to the home of Henry Clay Evans, where Governor McKinley is an honored guest. Thus the two apostles of opposing tariff ideas will sleep under the same roof and dine at the same table. This, however, will be perfectly congenial to both McKinley and Wilson. They were in Congress together and are personally good friends.

NOTES OF THE STAGE.

George Gurney, stage manager for Sir Augustus Harris, arrived in Boston from England on Mon-day, and began rehearsals of Humperdinck's "Han-sel and Greter" at Daiy's Theatre yesterday. Only the chorus is rehearsing as yet. The operetta is to be produced on October 7. Mr. Daiy is expected to arrive here on Friday or Saturday on the St. Louis.

Nat Goodwin has decided not to play "In Missoura" in the course of his present engagement at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, but to give all his time to "A Glided Fool," "David Garrick" and "Ambition." Henry Guy Carieton's new play.

J. M. Hill announces a matinee performance of "The Capitol," for clergymen only, to be given at the Standard Theatre on Wednesday of next week. "Sowing the Wind," which had a long run at the Empire Theatre, will be presented at the Grand Opera House on Monday night.

The members of the New-York Athletic Club have invited the members of the London Athletic Club, who have come here to join in the international games, to see the performance of "The Widow Jones" at the Bijou Theatre on Saturday evening.

SITE COMMITTEE SAY. The first step in the purchase of the new site for the City College was taken yesterday in the signing of the preliminary contract for the sale of eleven lots in the plot bounded by Convent-ave. St. Nicholas Place. One-hundred-and-thirty-eighth-st. and One-hundred-and-thirty-ninth-st. Six of these lots face St. Nicholas Place, while the remaining five form the southwestern corner of Convent-ave. and One-hundred-and-thirty-ninth-st. The sale of this piece of land has been under negotiation since July, and has been rapidly pushed since then. Colonel Alexander P. Ketchum has conducted the nego-tlations in behalf of the Board of Education, his associates on the Site Committee having given him full authority to go ahead with the purchase sum of $47,000 was the price agreed upon for these

He said: "The matter has been kept as quiet as possible, and I do not feel at liberty to say anything in reference to it. The committee settled on the Conventave site last June, and we are satisfied that it is the best available site in the city. We have been instructed to go ahead and acquire the property as soon as possible, and we have been negotiating for these lots ever since July. I do not profess to be an expert in real estate values, but I do not think that $17,000 is too much for the property, and at the same time I regard it as a very fair price."

Another member of the committee said: "When we settled on the Convent-ave, site we had some correspondence with the owners of property up there. Of course the establishing of the City College up there would immediately send up the price of real estate in that neighborhood. In fact, the mere announcement of the Site Committee's decision to place the college there sent up prices. Property up there was worth about $2,000 a lot, and when we decided to put the City College there we had a tacit agreement with these property-owners not to advance the price of their lots to an abnormal figure. I think the property-owners will athere to this agreement, so we need apprehend no delay from condemnation proceedings." Tribune reporter in reference to this sale. Mr.

The principal will go, at her death, to the daughter. Edith A. Livingston. The executors who applied for the probate of the will did not estimate the value of the estate. Arthur E. Weeks acts as executor with Mrs. Livingston.

CONTESTING A BROTHER'S WILL.

Objections were filed yesterday to the will of David had, which was offered for probate last May. Mr. Hall bequeathed to Mrs. Annie Jones $1,000, to Jennie Jones $1,000, and to his attorney, Harry Overing. $1,000. He gave $5 each to his brother Robert Hall and to several nephews. The testator adds: "The above bequest is made to my said brother, Robert Hall, on account of the unfriendly relations that have existed between myself and my said brother, Robert Hall, for several years last past." The residue of his estate is left to brothers, sisters nephews and nieces, most of whom live in Ireland. Robert Hull the brother of David Hall, has begun the contest, and filed objections with the Surrogate, the contest, and filed objections with the Surrogate, alleging that the will was obtained by fraud, and was not the free act of the testator.

David Hall had, by close saving, acquired a fortune of about $39,000. His brother, Robert Hall, alleges that in his later days he fell under the influence of relatives from Ireland, who kept him secluded from other persons and would not allow his brother to see him. The will was made a few hours before the death of David Hall, and signed with a mark, although it is said the testator knew how to write. The quarrel among the relatives went so far that Robert Hall caused an inquest to be held to ascertain whether his brother died from natural causes. No trace of violence or poison was found. There has already been a controversy over the management of the estate, and the Union Trust Company has been appointed temporary administrator by the Surrogate. James R. Angel and J. W. Bryant represent the contestant.

filed for probate yesterday in the Surrogate's office. Mrs. Townsend left an estate valued at $140,600 in real property and $4,000 in money and personal effects. She gave by her will all her household goods, plate and lewels to her two daughters, Caroline L. and Louisa Townsend. A pair of sliver pitchers, given to Mrs. Townsend by her husband, are left to a son, Thomas J. Townrend, and a watch and some furniture to another son, William J. Townsend. The sum of $6,000 is given to the daughter, Caroline L. Townsend, and a like sum to the daughter Louisa. All the residue of the estate is equally divided among the five children, except that the youngest son, Effingham Townsend, will receive only the income of his share for life.

OBITUARY.

JOSEPH C. WILSON.

Joseph C. Wilson, one of the receivers of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, died at the Holland House yesterday morning. His death was due to heart failure following a stroke of apoplexy. With Mr. Wilson at the time of his death were his two daughters, one of whom intends to enter Vas-sar College next month. In his party were Aldace F. Walker, also one of the receivers of the railroad, and Charles F. Gleed, his private secretary.

Mr. Wilson's home was in Tokeka, Kan. He arrived in this city on Monday night from the West. He was apparently in good health when he arrived at the hotel. He did not complain of feeling ill, and on Tuesday evening was around the corridors chatting with friends as late as 10 o'clock. He retired shortly after that hour. Nothing more was heard from him until 9 o'clock yesterday morning, when he felt ill. The daughter, who was in an adjoining room, hurriedly sent for a physician. Dr. J. COTILION AT THE PAVILION HOTEL.

In place of the usual hop that has been held weekly during the season at the Pavilion Hotel, Staten Island, a cotilion which had been organized by the young bachelor guests of the hotel was sub-stituted last night. A committee consisting of W. J. McConnell, James Pomeroy, Charles Pomeroy and R. T. Lozier, carried out the requisite arrangements, and their efforts were rewarded by the unqualified appreciation of all who were present. About thirty couples took part in the dances, and among the number were several prominent residents of Staten Island. The favors, which were of great taste and neatness comprised candelabra, fairy lamps, fancy receptacles, Japanese slippers, cigar cases and toothpick cases. The cotilion was led by Charles Pomeroy and Miss Florence Sprague and W. J. McConnell and Miss Mabel Northrop. The supper, which was the gift of D. M. THE SARATOGA CONVENTION.

ITS CANDIDATES AND ITS PLATFORM.

EXCELLENT AND BOUND TO WIN.

From The Albany Express.

No better proof could be desired of the perfect harmony that characterized the Republican Convention which came to so gratifying a conclusion at Saratoga last evening than the renomination, by acciantation, of the State officers who have so well served the people for two years. The manner in which those nominations were made presages the victory that will be achieved by the united and strong Republican party on election day. Those who took part in the convention carry home with them no heartburnings, no disappointments. The platform is concise and to the point. There are no unnecessary words. It says just what was right and proper, without any beating about the bush. From The Albany Express.

PLATT SIGNALLY ROUTED.

From The Boston Journal. Platt is not omnipotent. He could not force the New-York Republican Convention to ignore the vital issue of Sabbath observance and law enforcement in New-York City. On this point he was signally routed, and the New-York platform takes a stand which is both right and courageous.

EX-SENATOR MILLER'S HIGH SERVICE. From The Mail and Express.

From The Mail and Express.

Mr. Miller has earned the thanks of the Republican party of the Empire State by his courageous, vigorous and successful advocacy of an excise plank in the platform. While we do not accept the saloon as the leading issue in the State campaign, we nevertheless, accept it as a vital question in this metropolis; and as its regulations affect the material and moral welfare of this city, it must proportionately affect every city in the State. The issue is not one of "personal liberty," as Senator Hill has declared, but of the enforcement or non-enforcement of existing law. To have adopted the platform in its original form would have been an act of cowardice and evasion, and, as such, would have been deeply deplored by every intelligent and conscientions Republican. such, would have been deeply deplored by every intelligent and conscientions Republican.

From The Syracuse Post.

From The Syracuse Post

The platform, or declaration of principles, may be criticised for its length, perhaps, but not for the strong Republican sentiments which it declares. The convention went beyond the Platform Committee and gave expression to the popular sentiment in favor of the enforcement of the Sunday law. In this instance popular sentiment was stronger than the timidity and conservatism of platform makers. The resolution on the subject is worthy the respect of every law-abiding citizen. It is not tiliberal, but it is a reflection of the strong feeling throughout the State that laws upon the statute-book are made to be enforced, not ignored.

HILL'S CHALLENGE SQUARELY MET.

From The New-York Press.

Senator Hill can how go straight ahead with his knavish appeal to disorder and lawlessness, and we shall see who comes out ahead in the Grand Court of Public Opinion. The Republican party is still the party of moral ideas. The Republican candidates will win. They will go to the people as the representatives not merely of the American Sunday, but of every kindred idea—of public order, of a respect for law, of honest administration, of brave and manly officials who do their duty for duty's sake, and of a party which dares to declare itself openly and fearlessly where claims is noisets and base counsel most potent. They will carry an inspiring message to the people. It is this, "Follow, all who believe in Conscience in Politics". From The New-York Press.

VOICING A GREAT MORAL IDEA.

From The Newark Advertiser.

DEMOCRATS WOULDN'T CHANGE THE LAW. From The New-York Evening Post.

From The New-York Evening Post.

If because of the Republican refusal to change the excise laws the city puts itself again in the hands of Tammany, we know what it means. It would simply restore the old order of things, blackmail, lying, police demoralization, and rule by criminals and thugs. And there would be no change in the law either. The present laws were designed by Tammany and Hill to give them control of the liquor traffic for blackmailing purposes, and if Tammany gets into power again it will permit no change in the laws which will interfere with its revenues from this source. No intelligent citizen who cares for decent and honest government can afford to throw his vote under any conditions in such a way as to bring Tammany Hall again into power. An "American Sunday" may be illiberal and "puritanical," but a Tammany Sunday is something far worse than that. We are forced to choose between the two, and on that issue there ought to be no doubt of the result.

From The Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

The Republican State Convention of yesterday was not as stirring or exciting as some which have been held in the Empire State, but what it lacked in hurrah and enthusiasm was more than compensated for in the harmony and the assurances of success which marked the proceedings. The ticket was named without friction, and was chosen to win, The platform is sound as it is comprehensive on both State and National issues, and there is no reason why it should not receive the hearty support of the party as a whole, while on State matters it should invite and secure the support of thousands of reform Democrats. The political campaign is now fairly opened in New-York, and that it will be vigorously prosecuted to a substantial victory is not to be doubted.

A WHOLE PLATFORM IN FIFTEEN WORDS. From The Poughkeepste Eagle.

From The Pourhkeepsle Eagle.

We believe the presentation and adoption of the short and pointed resolution on the Sunday question, presented and adopted as it was, was the very wisest and best thing the Republican Convention could have done at Saratoga on Tuesday. It was not a studied declaration; as such it might have been regarded as inadequate; it was the spontaneous expression of what every delegate believed, and was in favor of, "the maintenance of the Sunday laws in the interests of labor and morality." There is a whole platform in these few words.

LIKE THE CONVENTION OF 1894. From The Utica Herald.

The Republican Convention of 1895 resembled that of 1894, in its representative character, its aggressive Republicanism, high purposes and the confidence of its appeal to the people. The convention and its work were worthy of the Republican party, and are commended to the people with confidence of their arraywal.

The event of greatest interest to the politicians of other States is the formal presentation of Governor Morton as New-York's choice for the head of the Republican National ticket next year and the formal pledging to him of the support-"joyal and unstinted"-of New-York's delegates in the National Convention. There was one dissenting voice, we are told. Has it been identified?

POWERLESS TO STEM THE TIDE OF DESERT-ERS TO THE COMPANIES WORKS. Ishpeming, Mich., Sept 18.—Between 100 and 20 men applied for work at the Ishpeming mines to-day. Section sixteen mine of the Lake Superior Iron Company will start a large force of men underground to-morrow. The mining companies have ordered that the changing-houses be prepared to receive the men to-morrow.

Strike leaders and small politicians of the Populist order are making desperate efforts to keep the men from going to work, but are powerless to atem the tide of deserters from the union. The whole county is delighted at the news that the end is at hand. the lide of the country is delighted at the news that the strike S. For indicating that he was tired of the strike S. Finn, a trammer, was knocked down with a club at Union Park yesterday.

The steam shovel men have gone to work to stay, but an ineffectual attempt was made yesterday to order them out. The new scale presented by the miners yesterday was answered unsatisfactorily by the companies this morning. If the union votes to hold out longer after this ultimatum, there while be desertions from that body. Those who a few days ago argued for a fight to the bitter end now counsel acceptance of the company's offer.

The Fresh Fragrance Of SOZODONT renders it the most agreeable article ever used as a tooth wash. It has none of the acrtid properties of the astringent tooth powders, and instead of contracting the gums, it renders them firm and clastic.
